Self-Paced Courses on Coursera

On April 25th, 2024, the Research and Development Cell of Rizvi College of Education organized a session aimed at guiding students in completing self-paced courses on Coursera, a part of their academic requirements. This initiative was designed to promote self-directed learning and equip students with valuable skills and knowledge beyond the traditional classroom environment. Under the guidance of Ms. Jyoti B. Bhatia, students were informed about the course selection process, the requirements for completion, and the submission guidelines. The session emphasized the importance of choosing courses that aligned with the students' interests and academic goals. Throughout the duration of the courses, students received regular support and reminders from faculty and administrative staff to ensure timely completion. The results were impressive, with 55 students successfully completing their chosen courses. This achievement underscores Rizvi College of Education's commitment to fostering lifelong learning and providing students with opportunities to enhance their academic and professional development. The Coursera initiative not only empowered students to take ownership of their learning but also prepared them with the skills and credentials needed to thrive in their future careers. As part of its ongoing commitment to innovation in education, Rizvi College of Education plans to continue integrating online learning platforms like Coursera into its programs, ensuring that students are well-equipped to meet future challenges.
