Activity Summary Report: GO4Youth 2025 – The Green Olympiad

From 7th to 11th April 2025, student teachers of Rizvi College of Education participated in GO4Youth 2025 – The Green Olympiad, organized online by The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI). This event, part of TERI's youth initiatives, aimed to enhance knowledge of environmental sustainability, energy, and policy while fostering environmentally conscious behavior among future educators.

A total of four student teachers (three FY and one SY) registered and actively participated in the Olympiad, which comprised 50 multiple-choice questions administered online over 60 minutes. All participants performed exceptionally, scoring above 80%, and received e-certificates, merit recognition, and membership in TERI's youth network, providing them exposure to professional development opportunities and internships with TERI and other eminent institutes.

Participation in GO4Youth 2025 allowed student teachers to strengthen their understanding of sustainability, energy conservation, and environmental policies. It also helped them envision ways to integrate environmental education into classroom teaching and inspired them to model responsible practices for future students. This initiative complements the Environment Cell's ongoing efforts to prepare student teachers as proactive Green Guardians, equipped to guide the next generation in sustainable living.
