Activity Summary Report: Workshop on “Universal Design for Learning (UDL)”

The Inclusive Education Cell of Rizvi College of Education organized a workshop on “Universal Design for Learning (UDL)” on 28th March, 2025, facilitated by Mrs. Upasna Roy, Assistant Professor at Clara’s College of Education. The session aimed to help student teachers understand how flexible learning design can support all learners through the three key UDL principles—multiple means of representation, engagement, and expression. The workshop was interactive and experiential, allowing students to reflect on classroom diversity and explore inclusive lesson planning techniques aligned with NEP 2020.

The session received highly positive feedback from both F.Y. and S.Y. B.Ed. students, who appreciated the facilitator’s engaging approach and practical insights. Participants shared that the workshop deepened their awareness of inclusive education and equipped them with strategies to make teaching accessible for all learners. The activity reinforced the institution’s commitment to nurturing empathetic, inclusive, and reflective teacher educators.
