Activity Summary Report: Multisensory Teaching Toolkit for Inclusive Education

The Inclusive Education Cell of Rizvi College of Education successfully facilitated a community-based experiential initiative titled “Multisensory Teaching Toolkit for Inclusive Education” during the S.Y. B.Ed. internship at ADAPT Bandra and ADAPT Chembur from 17th February to 4th March 2025. As part of the assignment, student teachers observed diverse learner profiles and collaboratively designed multisensory toolkits incorporating visual, auditory, tactile, kinesthetic, and digital components. These toolkits were tested in real classroom settings, allowing students to adapt their resources based on learner response. The initiative supported practical application of Universal Design for Learning (UDL) and deepened student teachers' understanding of inclusive classroom planning and pedagogy.

Following community work, students presented their toolkit development process at the college through reflective videos showcasing classroom implementation and learning outcomes. All toolkits were formally submitted to the ADAPT Centres for continued classroom use, receiving appreciation for their creativity, relevance, and reusability. The initiative was widely acknowledged as transformative, helping student teachers translate theory into practice while cultivating empathy, flexibility, and innovation in inclusive education. The video presentations are available for viewing on Google Classroom.
